

*Precision Language Services' CEO Joins National Advisory Board for Enterprising Women Magazine*

April 10, 2006, Lakeville, MN: Patricia May, President and CEO of Precision Language Services, Lakeville, Minnesota, has joined the National Advisory Board of Enterprising Women Magazine. The Enterprising Women National Advisory Board is comprised of a select group of women and men who show their support for the publication and give back to the women's business community by helping provide leadership, motivation and inspiration to thousands of women entrepreneurs across the US and Canada. Board membership is reserved for the country's top women business owners and corporate representatives and is considered a prestigious honor for a select group of accomplished women.

About Patricia May

Patricia May is President and CEO of Precision Language Services, a WBENC certified document translation firm. Precision Language Services has been providing translation and interpretation services to government agencies, corporations and private citizens on an international scale since 1993. Patricia May is a Minnesota native but has lived abroad and traveled extensively. She received a National Merit Scholarship to Michigan State University, and attended classes at Texas Tech (Lubbock), Moorhead State University, Leningrad State University (USSR), the Goethe Institut (Germany) and the University of Minnesota, earning a BA in Linguistics (German and Russian), Phi Beta Kappa.

Ms. May holds a Masters of Management from the College of St. Scholastica, Duluth, Minnesota. Her thesis work dealt with gendered language and stress levels in managerial women. Ms. May is the founder and President of Precision Language Services, a WBENC-certified firm, providing document translation and typesetting services for government agencies, corporate clients and private citizens on an international scale since 1993.

Patricia May and Precision Language Services have been featured in articles in Upsize Magazine, Twin Cities Business Monthly, and The Star Tribune. Ms. May is an honoree for the 2006 'Enterprising Women of the Year' sponsored by Enterprising Women Magazine and a recipient of the 2005 NAWBO Wise Woman award.

Ms. May is the mother of 3 daughters and has 2 grandchildren. She is fluent in both Russian and German, an accomplished pianist, a novice skydiver and an enthusiastic elephant collector. Ms. May holds a black belt in Shotokan karate and teaches self defense courses to women and teenagers through the Lakeville Community Center.

About Precision Language Services

Precision Language Services was founded in 1993 to offer translation and interpretation to clients first locally, then across the nation. Today the company provides document and website translation and localization as well as on-site and telephonic interpretation for 100 languages to clients across the United States and Europe. Clients range from small companies just breaking into the overseas market to international Fortune 500 companies such as 3M, Cendant, Ecolab, General Mills, and Wal-Mart, and include computer firms, insurance companies, government agencies, utility companies, many law firms, electronics manufacturers, and private citizens. Precision Language Services is WBENC, MN CERT certified and holds current registry with CCR, SBA and the Ariba Supplier Network. For more information on the services provided by Precision Language Services, please link to our website at www.precisionlanguage.com